PSP gets dedicated PlayStation Store

"Quite frankly, long overdue"

by Chris Ford published on 21 May 2007

SCEA president Jack Tretton has been speaking out on behalf of a dedicated PSP PlayStation Store, citing the established base and popularity of the Sony handheld.

"I think the advent of a long awaited and quite frankly long overdue ability to deliver a downloadable service for the PSP will help us out a great deal", he commented.

"Hopefully we'll have it out there by the fall."

So, the idea is that fans will be able to browse, download and buy content right from their PSP, Wi-Fi depending of course.
