Jela USB Skype VoIP mouse phone

The latest use-your-mouse-as-a-VoIP
-phone offering

We've seen VoIP mice before - Sony's Vaio VN-CX1 mouse was a triumph of design - but aside from its minimalist looks we didn't rate the thing that highly.

Another offering following the same theme is this new device from Jela.

The USP for this phone-mouse is that it boasts a 1.3-inch LCD screen, which makes placing calls easier but still doesn't get away from the fact that most people want the option of being able to use their mouse while making VoIP calls.

As an optical mouse, a mini Hi-Fi speaker and a VoIP phone this is certainly good value at $33.90, but would you use it?
