A portable Xbox 360!?

A whole new meaning to gaming on the go with Xbox screen

by Chris Ford published on 4 June 2007

Makers of all things gaming, Hori, have decided to add an Xbox 360 screen to their catalogue to put a new slant on the idea of portable gaming.

The screen is a 12-inch LCD and gives gamers without TVs the chance to play on 720p resolution where ever they find a power source Ö I wonder if Hori also do cigarette lighter adapters.

There's no word of yet of a European launch but Japan will see the screens go on sale this July.
