

<http://www.pocket-lint.com/news/8074/ipod-nano-factron-titanium-case>

£800 iPod nano case promises to stop scratches

It had better...

by Stuart Miles published on 6 June 2007

So you love your iPod nano? Well would you spend twice that on a case to protect it?

If you would, then the FACTRON Re-nano case is for you. Made of solid titanium, the case will set you back around £800 and is made by Kiwami Studios in Japan.

Still, I bet it means you won't get any scratches on the screen, or at least we would hope not.

