Bush launches £44 retro DAB with touchscreen controls

No more fiddling with your knob

by Amy-Mae Elliott published on 17 July 2007

Bush has extended its retro radio range with a new stylin' Piano Black high gloss model, the Bush TR04DABBLK, a stereo DAB digital radio.

This new radio boasts touchscreen controls so means no more twisting knobs to get to the station you want.

It auto-tunes and with the presets you can store 10 DAB and 10 FM station favourites at a touch of a screen.

Scrolling text is shown on the two line LCD with blue LED backlight display.

It comes with a matching retro styled handle and has the classic 1950's Bush logo on the front cloth speaker grill to give an added touch of nostalgia.

Available from this month onwards for £44.93 from ASDA.
