

<http://www.pocket-lint.com/news/9445/zink-digital-camera-printer-polaroid>

The ZINK Digital Camera Printer becomes Polaroid of 21 century

Digital camera and printer in one by Stuart Miles published on 17 August 2007

The Polaroid camera is slow last century. Bearing this in mind, a US company called Zink has launched the modern day equivalent in the form of an integrated digital camera and printer.

The new model, called the ZINK Enabled Digital Camera Printer, is a digital camera with a 7 megapixel sensor, 3x optical zoom, a 2-inch colour display, and accepts SD memory cards.

The printer allows you to prints full-colour borderless 2 x 3-inch digital photos and uses the companies ZINK Paper, which also comes available with sticky-backs.

The package is completed via an integrated, rechargeable battery.

It will be available later this weekend.

